A Pittsburgh paper has the following concerning the road which is to be built from Harrisburg to this city through Southern Pennsylvania:

Thes. P. Roberts, of the Pittsburgh East End Road, thinks there's not the least doubt of the intention of Vanderbilt to build the Harrisburg and Western Road. He estimates that the surveys have cost no less than 4550,000, as there were two or three arryeying corps out, but fifteen actually engaged in the work for two years past. Mr. Roberts thinks the Sports that the contracts for five tannels and eighty-live miles of road had been let are odrect. He regards Messrs. To say that some of the Second Branch members were mad when they learned for what the special meeting had been called, is putting it mildly. One member said; "Where is that ordinance that we had here once, that provided that when a special meeting was called, the object should be stated?" No one could answer him.

To the Editor of the Intelligeneer:

Eis: In your issue of Saturday, October 27, 1883, there appeared among the Moundaville items an article that does me it justice, and besides reflecting seriously upon my character, is calculated to ir jure me in the estimation of my friends and neighbors.
The article is made up of inaccuracies and perversions of the truth. I was assaulted by David Lutes while peaceably journeying on business in my wagon. He got into my wagme, and succeeded in pulling me over the wagon seat, and took from my pocket a re-volver which I had a med myself with bewagon seat, and took from my pockes are volver which I had armed myself with because of threats of violence sgainst my person, made by Cyrus Lutes and Oharles his son. I made no attempt to use a revolver on David Lutes. He having forcibly obtained my property and refusing to surrender it, and feeling agrieved becauge of his treatment, I chose what I believed the proper course and sought redress by appealing to the court of justice. I am also wrong ully accused of other matters, by your correspondent, that in order to refute would necessitate the use of a lady's same, and that I decline to do in public opinion in the matter be suspended until a decision is rendered by the court, which I feel will fully justify my action. Respectfully yours.

The Pittsburgh Leader of last evening has the following notes of interest:

John Teemer was met on Fifth avenue this morsing talking to Ross, Plaisted and young Priddy. He was asked if he prepresed rowing Conley this year and he replied not, that he was now out of condition, and he would row no more races until next season. Subsequently the quartet of scullers were asked what they thought of Moniger's second challenge to Rits of Wheeling. Res replied that Moniger did not stand much show of winning. "Why, he was three lengths ahead of Ritz on Saturday, and with that lead he should have best him then if he erer expected to." The Wheeling Dental Society.

The Wheeling Bental Society.

A preliminary meeting of the dentists of the city was held at Dr. C. A. Wingerter's, on Main street, last evening, with a view to forming an association. The meeting was organized by making Dr. Wingerter chairman and Dr. Thomas Lunaford secretary. Beside these genilemen there were present Drs Gasmire, Caddle, Stout, Morrisson, Hall, Surgison, Nesbitt and Ross. A good deal of informal discussion concerning the desirability of an organization, its objects and plan was indulged in, and finally a committee warsupointed to prepare and report to another meetings code of ethics to govern the members. It was de-died to call the organization in "Wheeling Dantal Society"

A permanent organization was effected with the following officers; President, O. A. Wingerter; Vice President, M. Stout; Secretary, A. F. Gaunirri, Treasurer, John Surgison. The committee mentioned above is composed of Drs. Wingerter, Gasmire, Stout, Morrison and Caddle. The object of the organization is to regulate prices and protect the business interests of the members. od to."

William Elliott, the oarsman, will sail for England from New York to-morrow on the steamer Wyoming. While there, he will tyo arrange matches with the Thames and Tyne watermen, many of whota he is confident of beating. He said he had learned much about rowing while in this country and is positive that any of our second class scullers can defeat the best men in England. He said there was no doubs' that Hanlan had no equal as asculler, and then come Courtney and Ross as second, with a preference for the former. Hosmer, he thinks, is not quite the equal of either of—them, though Elliott thinks he is superior to Teemer; after Teemer he places George Lee and then himself with Hamm, Conly, John A. Ksnnedy, Jim Ten Eyke, Jim Biley, Weisgerher, Fred Plaisted and George Cafsal in the order named. He said he never was in as good health as at the present. He weight a pound less than when he rowed Hanlan for the champlonship of England. He will return in May.

following: "Gurly Jack" will be remembered as Jack Condrey, formerly a well known Wheeling crook:

The poilco Suturday and Sunday arrested six men at different times and different places in this city, who were recognized by Pittsburgh officers as well known thieves and safe blowers. The first infination that the Mayor had of their presence in the city was when Adam Wiver, a Pittsburgh thief known in this city, sot off the train Saturday morning, with another crook with him. The Mayor immedistally concluded that a job had been set for Steubenville, and has posted the police to arrest all supplicions characters in the city. They succeedee in getting "Curly Jack," Adams Wiser, Teddy Finn, "Toss," Ed Duncan and George Brown, who were fined for various offenses in order to hold them. Pittsburgh officers were telegraphed to, and k-day three policemen accompanied by an oldgentleman who had been knocked down in his store on Fifth avenue Saturday evening, but the thleves were frighted away before they stole anything. Nell Burgess ha'n good house last night, and his play of "Vim" was greeted with continuous laughter. The programme says it is "in three acts and a night mare." The night mare is where the circus comes in, and this is one of the funniest things ever seen on a stage. By means of the revolving stage a horse, with Mrs. Puffy in circus costume mounted upon him, moves his feet as though going at full speed, and yet stands still. A special telegram from Point Pleasant, Mason county, to the Cincinnal Enquirer, under date of Eaturdsy, says: A special term of the Cironic Court was held here to-day to bear, the motion of Depue, of New York, representing himself and one hundred and seventy-five other bondholders of the Ohio Central railroad, on the filing of a petition asking the brands party defendants to the suit of N. L. Robinson against the said railroad and others, in which John E. Martin was appointed receiver.

The filing of the petition was objected to by conneal for the road, which o' juction being fully argued, the same was overguled and the petition permitted to be filed. The principal allegation in the petition charges that Robinson, being the son-in-law of George I. Seney, of the Seney syndicate, that he was acting in collision with thet syndicate for the purpose of plundering the road in fact, to free's out the small bondholders by disfaulting in the payment of the interest on the bonds of the River Division when they had the money to pay said interest with.
